

Design Planning Workshop: Creating an Integrated Design Programme

In a project environment consultants, contractors and suppliers are brought together with the aim of delivering an integrated and co-ordinated solution. Rarely, however, are the disparate plans submitted by the collaborating organisations reviewed and integrated to ensure alignment in approach and commitment to working together. Integrated design planning (and subsequent management) is an essential ingredient of project success.

In recognition of the need to plan, manage and control the design process in an integrated fashion this one-day workshop, encompassing both taught and practical sessions, provides training in methods & techniques for developing integrated design programmes through structured, collaborative working.
